Investment Philosophy

- Proprietary investment universe: around 500 names defined through fundamental knowledge. Each stock is assigned a level of thematic exposure to the "Millennial Effect" based on GSAM proprietary research and qualitative assessment of the companies' revenues source.
- Bottom-up growth strategy: quality check based on FCF, ROIC, competitive advantages and their sustainability, quality of management to identify best-in class businesses. Sound valuation discipline.
- Sources of alpha: stock picking is the main value-added, particularly in the small and mid-caps and off-benchmark names.
- Unconstrained: the portfolio is designed to be sector, country and market cap agnostic. All cap fund.
- Portfolio construction: concentrated portfolio of 40-50 stocks but well-balanced across IT and Lifestyle sectors. Low name turnover but active trading around existing positions. Disciplined sizing of holdings.
- Biases: strong exposure to growth sectors, i.e technology, communication services and consumer sectors. Higher exposure to Emerging Markets than thematic peers.

Strengths

- Investment capabilities: highly dedicated, experienced duo of PM on the most relevant sectors. i.e consumer and IT. High interaction and leverage of analytical capabilities within GSAM teams for idea generation, stock analysis and cross-checking. Millennials' theme investigated since 2013 with extensive research published.
- Local insight and global platform: the fund benefits from the outstanding buy-side analysts' platform with an extensive breadth of coverage on stocks related to the Millennials theme. The strategy offers more exposure to uncovered and under-researched stocks compared to peers which are more focused on large tech companies.
- Focus on risk management: the fund exhibits lower drawdown, beta, down capture ratio than best peers. Sound portfolio diversification and sizing of positions to build a resilient pattern of performance despite sector and growth style biases. Better valuation discipline than peers.
- Performance: the fund outperforms the MSCI ACWI and MSCI ACWI Growth indices since inception with above average risk-adjusted profile. It also outperforms its best competitors within its customized thematic peer-group since inception.

Weaknesses

- Track record: the fund has been launched in February 2016, the track record is short to assess the strategy over a full market cycle. However, 2018 has been a good stress test to evaluate the robustness of the strategy in adverse market environment.
